PATRIOTS OR CANCERS?

"REPUBLICAN" Senators John McCain and Lindsay Graham are two of the most dangerous villains in America, convinced in their minds they alone hold the answers to the world's problems and should be the leader of the free world, totally blinded by failed personal political ambition to be President, rejected overwhelmingly by We the People.

This terminal cancer epidemic in the Senate Debate Club causes delusional narcissistic spewing for the glory of the cameras instead of private conversation with our elected President who alone can effect the change they want.

These men have Senate experience...a limited view, but advise our President privately so our enemies world wide see unity, instead of giving "aid and comfort to our enemies" seeing disunity, dysfunction.

Just hours after news broke of McCain's brain cancer diagnosis, the Arizona senator blasted President Trump amid a report that the administration decided to halt a CIA training program for moderate Syrian rebels fighting Bashar al-Assad's regime.

"If these reports are true, the administration is playing right into the hands of Vladimir Putin," McCain said in a statement Thursday. "Making any concession to Russia, absent a broader strategy for Syria, is irresponsible and short-sighted."

That is ONE opinion the voters rejected for President, valued input for our President to consider, but crossing the line to spew in to the world in front of the cameras so our enemies see weakness of our resolve is not patriotism, but pandering for personal attention in pursuit of personal political glory.
